Advisory Neighborhood Commissioner Historical List

Advisory Neighborhood Commissions (ANC's) were created following enactment of legislation approving the District's "Home Rule" charter in 1973. These neighborhood groups provide District residents with "grass-roots" experience in the electoral process. Advisory Neighborhood Commissions are based on the latest Census Bureau record of the District's population and comprise of a number of Single Member Districts each approximating 2,000 residents, within boundaries developed by the Council of the District of Columbia. The candidates elected for each Single Member District serve as an Advisory Neighborhood Commissioner of the designated Single Member District.

Below is the historical data of the Advisory Neighborhood Commissioners who were elected during elections held in the District of Columbia between November 1979 through November 2012.
