District Sees Record Turnout for November 6 General Election

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The District of Columbia Board of Elections (DCBOE) would like to thank and congratulate District voters for a record turnout. While this record turnout often created long lines, we appreciate your patience. Moreover, residents turned out to cast their record breaking ballots despite the long lines and rainy weather.

We are working hard to process Election Day results as quickly as possible, but would like to share that Early Voting, which took place between October 22 and November 2, yielded an outstanding 52,510 ballots cast.

We will have the balance of these record numbers shortly, and as always, THANK YOU FOR VOTING.

The District of Columbia Board of Elections is an independent agency of the District of Columbia Government responsible for the administration of elections, ballot access, and voter registration.
