DCBOE Statement on the Passing of Board Member Michael Gill

Washington, DC – The District of Columbia Board of Elections (DCBOE) issues the following statement on the passing of former DCBOE Board member Michael Gill:

All of us at the District of Columbia Board of Elections (DCBOE) express our profound sorrow at the passing of Michael Gill. We convey our deepest condolences to his family and friends as they grieve the death of such a wonderful husband, father, and friend to all.

Mike served on our three-member Board from 2016 to 2022. He was dedicated to our mission to ensure that our elections are open and fair, and he contributed to that mission in hundreds of meetings, events, and interactions over his seven years on the Board.

More than that, Mike was a constant true friend and gracious colleague to everyone at the DCBOE. He added a great sense of humor and camaraderie to every gathering, always bringing people together and making them feel valued. Mike went above and beyond as a Board member, even after his final term ended, remaining supportive to all at the DCBOE.

We are like a family at DCBOE, and as we grieve with others, we are counting our many blessings to have known Mike all these years. His good cheer and positivity will forever remain part of our office culture, and we will always be grateful for such a good man.

The District of Columbia Board of Elections is an independent agency of the District of Columbia Government responsible for the administration of elections, ballot access, and voter registration.
